Table 5.2: Gender, sexual orientation and idiosyncrasies. Start in the middle and roll one dice. For -3, -1, 2 or 4 select the appropriate line. At -5, go left and roll again, at 6 go right and roll again. Don't turn around or leave the table (choose -5/6 instead). σ : woman, σ^+ : man, σ^+ : feminine-looking man, σ^+ : masculine-looking woman, σ : gender not directly recognizable, $a \rightarrow b$: called a at birth, lives as b, σ : biologically not clearly determinable, X^- : less than once a week, X^+ : more than once a week, X^* : always try something new, X^\dagger : only without contraction, X^o : always the same, X^C : without light, X^{SM} : BDSM, $X!*$: gender does not matter, $X!+$: in groups, $X!^-$: completely asexual. The results for homosexuals correspond to the frequency in the EU according to Dalia (5-10 %), for transgender people ($a \rightarrow b$) they roughly correspond to the frequency of the Federal Constitutional Court (according to Stackoverflow, for intersex people (σ) the statement of the Federal Constitutional Court (according to Quarks & Co.: one in 500 people; 0.2 %). The rest is guessed, but hopefully interesting.
